Summer Residential Programs

PreCollegiate rising sophomores and their peer counselors at CMC Spring Valley.

CMC Spring Valley Residential Summer Program

On the evening of June 6th we kicked off our residential summer program for our 75 rising Sophomores at CMC Spring Valley. During that following week our scholars were able to push their limits on the high ropes course, explore the Vet Tech center, and learn more about the different career paths available through CMC. Our scholars took classes designed to get them a head start in the fall, start thinking about their personal essay for college applications and get a sense of independence by staying in the dorms and experience college for the first time! It was a very successful summer at CMC!

On June 16 our incoming seniors headed to CU Boulder for their two week residential summer program. Our scholars were there with the Summit and Lake county PreCollegiate programs. We had a total of about 100 students and 20 peer counselor staff on campus. During those two weeks at CU our scholars had the opportunity to submit their first college application, and they will receive a decision on their application before starting school in the fall! They also began to build college lists, work on resumes and scholarship essays, and start thinking ahead to the college application process in the fall.

While on campus our students had the opportunity to explore different potential majors. They also had the opportunity to be taught by college professors in different areas of study like engineering, health sciences, business, the neuroscience of learning, and critical sports studies.

We also had some fun visiting pearl street and going to Elitches on the weekend. It was a very successful summer program, and we're excited to see where the class of 2020 will go! Thank you to CU, especially Brittany Dye and the Admissions office, our peer counselors, and the teachers that support our students year after year.
